

Intelligence Community Staff:

GS-17, Chief, Program and Budget Review Branch

This officer is the principal DCI Community budget officer (Comptroller) with responsibility for overseeing, on behalf of the DCI, the development, review, and execution of all intelligence community resource programs, both in the current budget year and over the five program years. He monitors and reports to the DCI and IRAC on the programming action of the individual program managers, participates in program reviews by all USIB/IRAC agencies and formulates presentations for the IRAC, USIB, and OMB. He works with Congressional Staff and program managers in preparing the DCI's presentation of the National Intelligence Budget to Congress. In this, he must be in constant touch with the Comptroller elements of all USIB/IRAC agencies. He supervises senior program monitors assigned to each major Community program and relates evaluative reports on resource use to the D/DCI/IC for policy review and coordination. His outside contacts are at the assistant secretary, three-star, and supergrade levels among program managers and various program review authorities.
